You have to do what you dream of doing even while you´re afraid

Arianna Huffington

Each environment is either conducive or inhibiting my unique potential. Every environment helps me find out what my distinctive talents are. It is only my responsibility never to give up my dreams. Each environment gives my willingness, my courage to find out what my true potential is. Do I renounce every day a loving environment to do something that stifles my potential and makes me ill? Do I realize that my greatest fulfillment is to fully realize my unique potential?
